Entrepreneurship program for schools - book now

UQ Idea Hub has launched their latest workshop series, the Discover Program. This program teaches senior high school students an entrepreneurial mindset and skills that will help them to succeed in school and well beyond.

The program features four key topics:

- Entrepreneurship Diversity to understand the different traits that form the entrepreneur personality and the types of businesses which follow from that.
- Business Acumen to get a big picture of the different elements that form a business, and to learn how to design and choose the right business model for each idea.
- Agile Thinking to learn how to use agile tools such as design thinking, Kanban and Scrum to run businesses more efficiently, and to empower and motivate teams.

- Leadership Talent to improve student self awareness, connect with their own style of leadership and to influence others in a constructive way.

The program is partially subsidised by UQ, and can take place on campus or in school.
