The University Staff Development Program delivers over 900 courses to staff each year. We offer a broad range of courses that support UQ staff with their training and development needs, including:

- Leadership
- Career progression
- Skill development
- Personal growth

Explore the program and enrol through the website at www.uq.edu.au/staffdevelopment

UQ Staff Development provides opportunities for our people to grow personally and professionally through a strong commitment to organisational learning and development.

Think about your career direction and development needs, and talk with your supervisor. This ensures the development you undertake is either something that you can use immediately in your current role or something that links to your career development goals. A short guide “Planning Your Development” is available on the Staff Development website (under “About”).

On the Staff Development website www.uq.edu.au/staffdevelopment, you will find descriptions of the courses you are interested in, as well as specific objectives, dates, prerequisites and any recommendations regarding who should attend.

To register for a course via the Staff Development website www.uq.edu.au/staffdevelopment, click on one of the 5 categories, choose one of the programs then select the course you wish to attend. Click on the Register button against the date you would like to attend.

If a course is already fully subscribed you can still register your interest and your details will be put on a waiting list. If a place becomes available, you will be notified by email.

Places in all courses are limited, and some are filled up quickly. Please consider others who may be on a waiting list by notifying Staff Development as early as possible if you cannot attend a course. To withdraw from a course you need to email staffdev@uq.edu.au. You cannot withdraw from a course via MyAurion.

Log onto MyAurion and select the training tab.

The University’s commitment to staff development is built on the recognition that our workforce underpins all that we do across learning, discovery and engagement.
