QUEENSLAND

Queensland is the engine room for economic growth in Australia. Strong business investment generates tens of thousands of new jobs every year.

Through its "Smart State" initiative, the Queensland Government has invested more than $3 billion in research and development and innovation. Queensland's economy is characterised by a highly educated and skilled population, advanced productivity, a culture of creativity and innovation, and opportunities across Queensland communities.

Queensland's economy has enjoyed a boom in the tourism and mining industries over the past 20 years. A sizeable influx of interstate and overseas migrants, large amounts of federal government investment, increased mining of vast mineral deposits and an ever-expanding aerospace sector ensure that the State will remain Australia's fastest growing economy in the foreseeable future.

Queensland attracts more than half of all international tourists to Australia. Its tropical coastal strip includes sandy beaches, coral islands and plenty of sunshine.

In the far north, the Daintree Rainforest sweeps down to the sea. As the oldest rainforest on Earth, it nurtures spectacular wildlife.

The Great Barrier Reef is one of the "Natural Wonders of the World". As the largest World Heritage Area, it stretches more than 2000 kilometres alongside the coast, and is home to around 1500 species of fish and 350 types of coral.

West of Queensland's Great Dividing Range are mine sites and huge cattle and sheep properties. The unique red and brown landscapes of Queensland's outback span around 800,000 square kilometres.

Closer to Brisbane, some of the largest sand dunes in the world attract travellers to Stradbroke, Moreton and Fraser Islands.

- the School of Dentistry, in Brisbane's CBD
- teaching hospitals, health centres, and other medical research facilities through Brisbane, the Gold Coast, and other parts of Queensland.

RESEARCH INSTITUTES

UQ supports a broad and comprehensive research profile, while investing strategically in selected areas where it has developed critical mass and internationally recognised strengths.

UQ's existing research strengths have evolved into seven internationally significant, interdisciplinary research institutes, many of which offer study opportunities for students.

By combining modern infrastructure with a culture that champions research excellence, UQ's institutes have attracted a community of more than 1500 scientists, social scientists and engineers from Australia and around the world.

Australian Institute for Bioengineering and Nanotechnology (AIBN)

The $70 million AIBN Building at UQ St Lucia is Australia's first purpose-built facility for research that combines the biological, chemical and physical sciences. The world-class researchers at the Institute aim to improve human health and quality of life, and are researching areas such as tissue regeneration and improved methods of drug manufacture and delivery.

Diamantina Institute for Cancer, Immunology and Metabolic Medicine

The Diamantina Institute brings together clinicians, clinical researchers and scientists working on some of today's most important health problems, including cancer, diabetes, and arthritis. The Institute is headed by 2006 Australian of the Year and cervical cancer vaccine pioneer, Professor Ian Frazer.

The aim of the Institute is to develop a better understanding of the molecular and cellular basis of disease and to translate that understanding into practical outcomes for patients.

Global Change Institute (GCI)

Climate change, an escalating population, and increasing demand on resources are just three factors affecting our changing world. The GCI focuses on providing expert-based innovative solutions for the problems and opportunities of today and tomorrow.

By coordinating the efforts and brilliance of UQ's researchers, the GCI focuses on solutions to the key challenges of sustainable cities, food security, water, climate change, renewable energy, population health, and the environment. The Institute's work contributes to curriculum development in most undergraduate degree programs.

Researchers at the IMB investigate genes, proteins, and small molecules in interdisciplinary teams in order to understand disease and develop new pharmaceuticals, therapies, and diagnostics. In addition to biomedical research, IMB also has scientists studying bioinformatics, green energy, and environmentally friendly pest control.

Institute for Social Science Research (ISSR)

UQ's goal of addressing important societal problems with world-class research was significantly advanced through the opening of the ISSR in 2007. The ISSR highlights the significant research strengths in areas of contemporary social relevance across the University.

Queensland Brain Institute (QBI)

Researchers at QBI are focusing their efforts on discovering the fundamental molecular and physiological regulation of brain function. It is believed that such an understanding will bring new generic approaches to rectify a large spectrum of mental and neurological illnesses, including dementia, motor neuron disease, multiple sclerosis, depression, schizophrenia, drug addiction, and stroke. The Institute's $63 million state-of-the-art research facility at UQ St Lucia is designed to accommodate some 250 scientists and support staff.

Sustainable Minerals Institute (SMI)

Australia's mining industry is dealing with the concept of growth that makes economic sense and is environmentally and socially responsible. Increasingly, the industry is turning to the SMI for new and unique ways of addressing these responsibilities. SMI's success stems from its practical applications of research at an operational level.

GETTING STARTED AND ORIENTATION

A compulsory Getting Started session and an Orientation for international students take place before classes begin.

Getting Started

International students will find attending a Getting Started session within a few days of arrival very useful. The session is designed for someone new to Brisbane and covers:

- city, locality, and campus maps
- how to enrol
- getting student ID cards
- “O Week” (the University-wide orientation week) activities
- banking in Australia

Following the official welcome, separate Orientation sessions are held for full degree, and study abroad and exchange students. These sessions offer more specific information and advice on issues such as enrolment, the library, learning assistance, and living and travelling in Australia.

“O Week”

“O Week” is a University-wide celebration for all students who are starting their studies at UQ. Held in the week before the start of Semesters 1 and 2, it is an excellent opportunity to meet people and make friends soon after arrival in Brisbane. There are special sessions for international students on finding part-time work, safety, support for families of international students (see page 85), and the Australian health system.

Other highlights include campus tours, advice and information about specific programs and courses, and entertainment and cultural activities.

Mini orientations are also held throughout the year for international students who arrive after the start of lecture periods.

Student counselling

Starting university can be an exciting and rewarding time, but also a time of change and stress, which may lead to a range of difficulties that can affect a student's life and studies.

Student counsellors are professionals available to help with a range of issues, including dealing with crises, relationship problems, cross-cultural communication, and adjusting to university life.

Counselling provides somewhere to talk about problems ranging from everyday hassles to those that seriously affect the ability to function at university, and an opportunity to generate solutions to problems.

Disability support

UQ is committed to accessibility in teaching, learning, and the physical environment. Students with a disability should contact a Disability Advisor the year before they intend to commence studies at UQ. Disability advisors will then work closely with the student to help facilitate learning through the implementation of adjustments and access plans.

Learning assistance

Learning advisors are available to help students develop core academic skills to achieve the best possible outcomes at university. More than 20 academic study skills workshops run each week across the teaching semester. The workshops are cycled to take into account student learning differences. The sessions address writing, reading, studying, exam preparation, time management, and many other areas. Many of these workshops are also held within lectures and tutorials. In addition to the learning workshop program, learning advisors are available for individual consultations.

Student Equity

The Student Equity staff can help prospective and current students from equity groups access and engage in university education. Equity groups are groups who have faced educational disadvantages and are traditionally under-represented at university, including students:

- with a disability
- from low socio-economic backgrounds
- interested in non-traditional areas of study
- from rural and remote districts
- from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

The special entry program UQ Link and other equity scholarships are also available to students from equity target groups.

Food

Queensland's thriving multicultural community is reflected in UQ's wide variety of on-campus food outlets.

International Student Advisors can help students with special dietary requirements to locate suitable food, including kosher and organic produce. Muslim students are given an information booklet listing the grocery stores, butchers, and restaurants in south-east Queensland that sell halal food in the Getting Started session.

UQ St Lucia students can easily find light snacks, hot meals, Asian noodles, vegetarian dishes, pizza, kebabs, burgers, barbecues, sushi, sandwiches, cakes, and hot lunches at the many food outlets on campus. The campus has three refectories (cafeterias), and the Main Course Food Precinct (main refectory) provides halal meat.

The Ipswich campus has a student bar, refectory, and café. Club Med Café operates at UQ Herston, and a dining hall and café are available at UQ Gatton.

Shopping and banking

UQ St Lucia has numerous shops, banks, automatic teller or banking machines (ATM), as well as a post office, pharmacy, optometrist, print shop, hairdresser, theatre, and travel agent.

Secondhand books and other equipment, such as laboratory coats, can be bought at Secondhand Texts and Stationery at UQ St Lucia or the UQ Gatton bookshop.

The bookshops at the St Lucia, Ipswich, and Gatton campuses stock new textbooks, stationery and other materials. The Herston Medical Bookshop is a specialist bookshop owned by the UQ Union, which caters for health professionals and students in all medical disciplines.

ACCOMMODATION OPTIONS

UQ St Lucia

Students attending UQ St Lucia can choose from on-campus residential colleges, off-campus student housing or rental houses and units.

On-campus residential colleges

More than 2350 students live on-campus in the 10 residential colleges at UQ St Lucia. Colleges generally provide individual bedrooms (usually with shared bathrooms), meals, laundry facilities, and common social and recreation spaces. They may also offer academic tutorials, pastoral care and religious observance. Cromwell College (Campus Lodge) and International House provide self-catered accommodation for postgraduate and mature-aged students.

Colleges accept all applications, regardless of students' religious affiliations or views; however, some give priority to students committed to the college ethos.

On-campus accommodation is in high demand. To avoid disappointment, students should apply directly to the college they wish to live in as soon as they have received their UQ offer. Application forms are available directly from colleges or via the Accommodation Services website. Applicants are advised to consider a second option in case college accommodation is not available.

For details, refer to the table on page 24.

Off-campus student housing

There are a number of commercial student accommodation providers servicing UQ

students. These independent providers offer a variety of purpose-built and managed housing for students, which combine the advantages of residing in a student community with the freedom of self-catered housing. They provide appropriate, well-located accommodation that complies with all relevant state legislation. A variety of studio and single bedroom apartments are available for individual students as well as two to three bedroom units for groups of friends. Some unit complexes include swimming pools, gymnasiums and communal recreational areas, while others provide more basic facilities suitable for students with smaller budgets.

Accommodation through these providers can be booked prior to commencing a UQ degree program. Applications for off-campus student housing should be submitted directly to the provider.

For a list of these providers please see the Accommodation Services website (www.accommodation.uq.edu.au).

Off-campus rental housing

Share houses and apartments are the most common form of student housing, allowing students to save on costs and develop friendships. Houses are generally shared by three or more students, with weekly rent ranging from about AUD$110 to AUD$175 per person. Apartments are usually smaller and are shared by two or more people depending on apartment size and personal preferences. Weekly rent ranges from about AUD$140 to AUD$200 per person.

The UQ Rentals Online website lists vacant rental accommodation for UQ students (see page 23). However, it is strongly advised that rental housing only be arranged once students have arrived in Brisbane. Most students interested in rental accommodation will book airport reception and temporary accommodation (see left), then look for long-term rental housing during their first few days in Brisbane.

Please note:

- houses and units (also called flats or apartments) are usually rented (leased) for six or 12-month periods
- initial costs can be high – payment of two weeks rent in advance, plus a bond equivalent to four weeks rent
- security deposits for gas, electricity and phone connections may be required
- houses are generally rented unfurnished
- furnished or part-furnished houses and apartments are available, but rent is higher
- students must budget for food, household items and ongoing utility costs such as gas, electricity and telephone (see page 84).

A typical on-campus student room

UQ Ipswich

Students studying at UQ Ipswich can live in student accommodation close to campus or rent houses or units in surrounding suburbs. On-campus residential college accommodation is not available.

Off-campus student housing

Two independent providers offer student accommodation adjacent to the campus. One features a complex of five-bedroom, fully furnished, self-catering units where students rent a single bedroom and share facilities with four other flatmates. The other has single, study bedrooms with shared dining and recreational facilities. Students can choose from fully catered, partially catered, or self-catered options. A third independent provider offers students self-catering accommodation in an apartment complex located in central Ipswich, which is within easy walking distance of campus.

Students should apply online in advance. More information about off-campus student housing is available at the Accommodation Services website.

Off-campus rental housing

Please refer to the Accommodation Services website for further information.

UQ Gatton

There are a variety of accommodation options for students at UQ Gatton, including on-campus colleges and houses, off-campus student accommodation, or rental accommodation in townships nearby.

On-campus residential colleges

Three Halls of Residence accommodate up to 350 students at UQ Gatton, which are non-denominational. The Halls provide a caring environment with academic support plus cultural, social and sporting activities. Senior students and staff help with study, and social and personal welfare matters.

Students have an excellent chance of obtaining on-campus accommodation but need to contact Hall staff to confirm places before arrival. Accommodation is offered on an academic year basis (excluding vacation periods) with fees due in advance. All meals are included. Senior students can elect to stay in one of the self-catered blocks. Please contact the Halls of Residence to apply.

For details, refer to the table on page 24.

On-campus houses

Students may choose to stay in one of the self-contained on-campus houses managed by UQ Accommodation Services. Students may choose to rent a room in a fully furnished share house that accommodates up to four people.
